The gift of teaching

Traditions, continuity of professional qualities, and communication between generations are important in any profession. They are best realized when some business becomes a part of family life. This is how dynasties are formed. Most often, we use "dynasty" when we talk about builders or miners. And there are dynasties of teachers, of course.

This is an amazing phenomenon-the dynasties of teachers! People who are related choose the same profession. What is it: genes, the "call of blood"? The gift of teaching, inherited? Or is it something received from above that determines fate?

Get Creative with Your Writing!

1 Write a social media post about a special tradition in your family related to teaching. Include the phrase "The gift of teaching" in your post.

2 Imagine you are writing an email to a younger family member who is considering becoming a teacher. Share your thoughts on the importance of passing down the "gift of teaching" in your family.

3 Create a blog post discussing the impact of having a family dynasty of teachers. Reflect on how the "gift of teaching" has influenced your family's professional qualities and communication between generations.

NADEZHDA, the GRANDDAUGHTER of LILIA VASILYEVNA- ZYRYANOVA, says:

The ancestor of our teaching dynasty is the great-grandmother of Zueva Irina Nikitichna. She has given more than 40 years to the school and has the title of "Excellent Student of Public Education".

Irina Nikitichna started to work as an ordinary teacher, then she became the Head Teacher of the school in Uletovsky district. School in the village was a small wooden building with stove heating.

My great-grandmother was a teacher of Russian language and literature. Great-grandmother Zueva Irina Nikitichna, grandmother Zyryanova Lilia Vasilyevna, grandmother's sister Tamara Vasilyevna Efimova are teachers. My dad, Sergey Evgenyevich Zyryanov, also graduated from the pedagogical institute and worked as a physical education teacher.

Lilia Vasilyevna-my grandmother. She is a teacher of Russian language and literature of Gymnasium No. 9. Lilia Vasilyevna has been faithful to the teaching title for more than forty years.

Tamara Vasilyevna lives in the city of Chita. She works as a teacher in the regional center "Iskra".

"Grandma, I think you've become a real teacher," I once told her.

Colleagues about the teacher

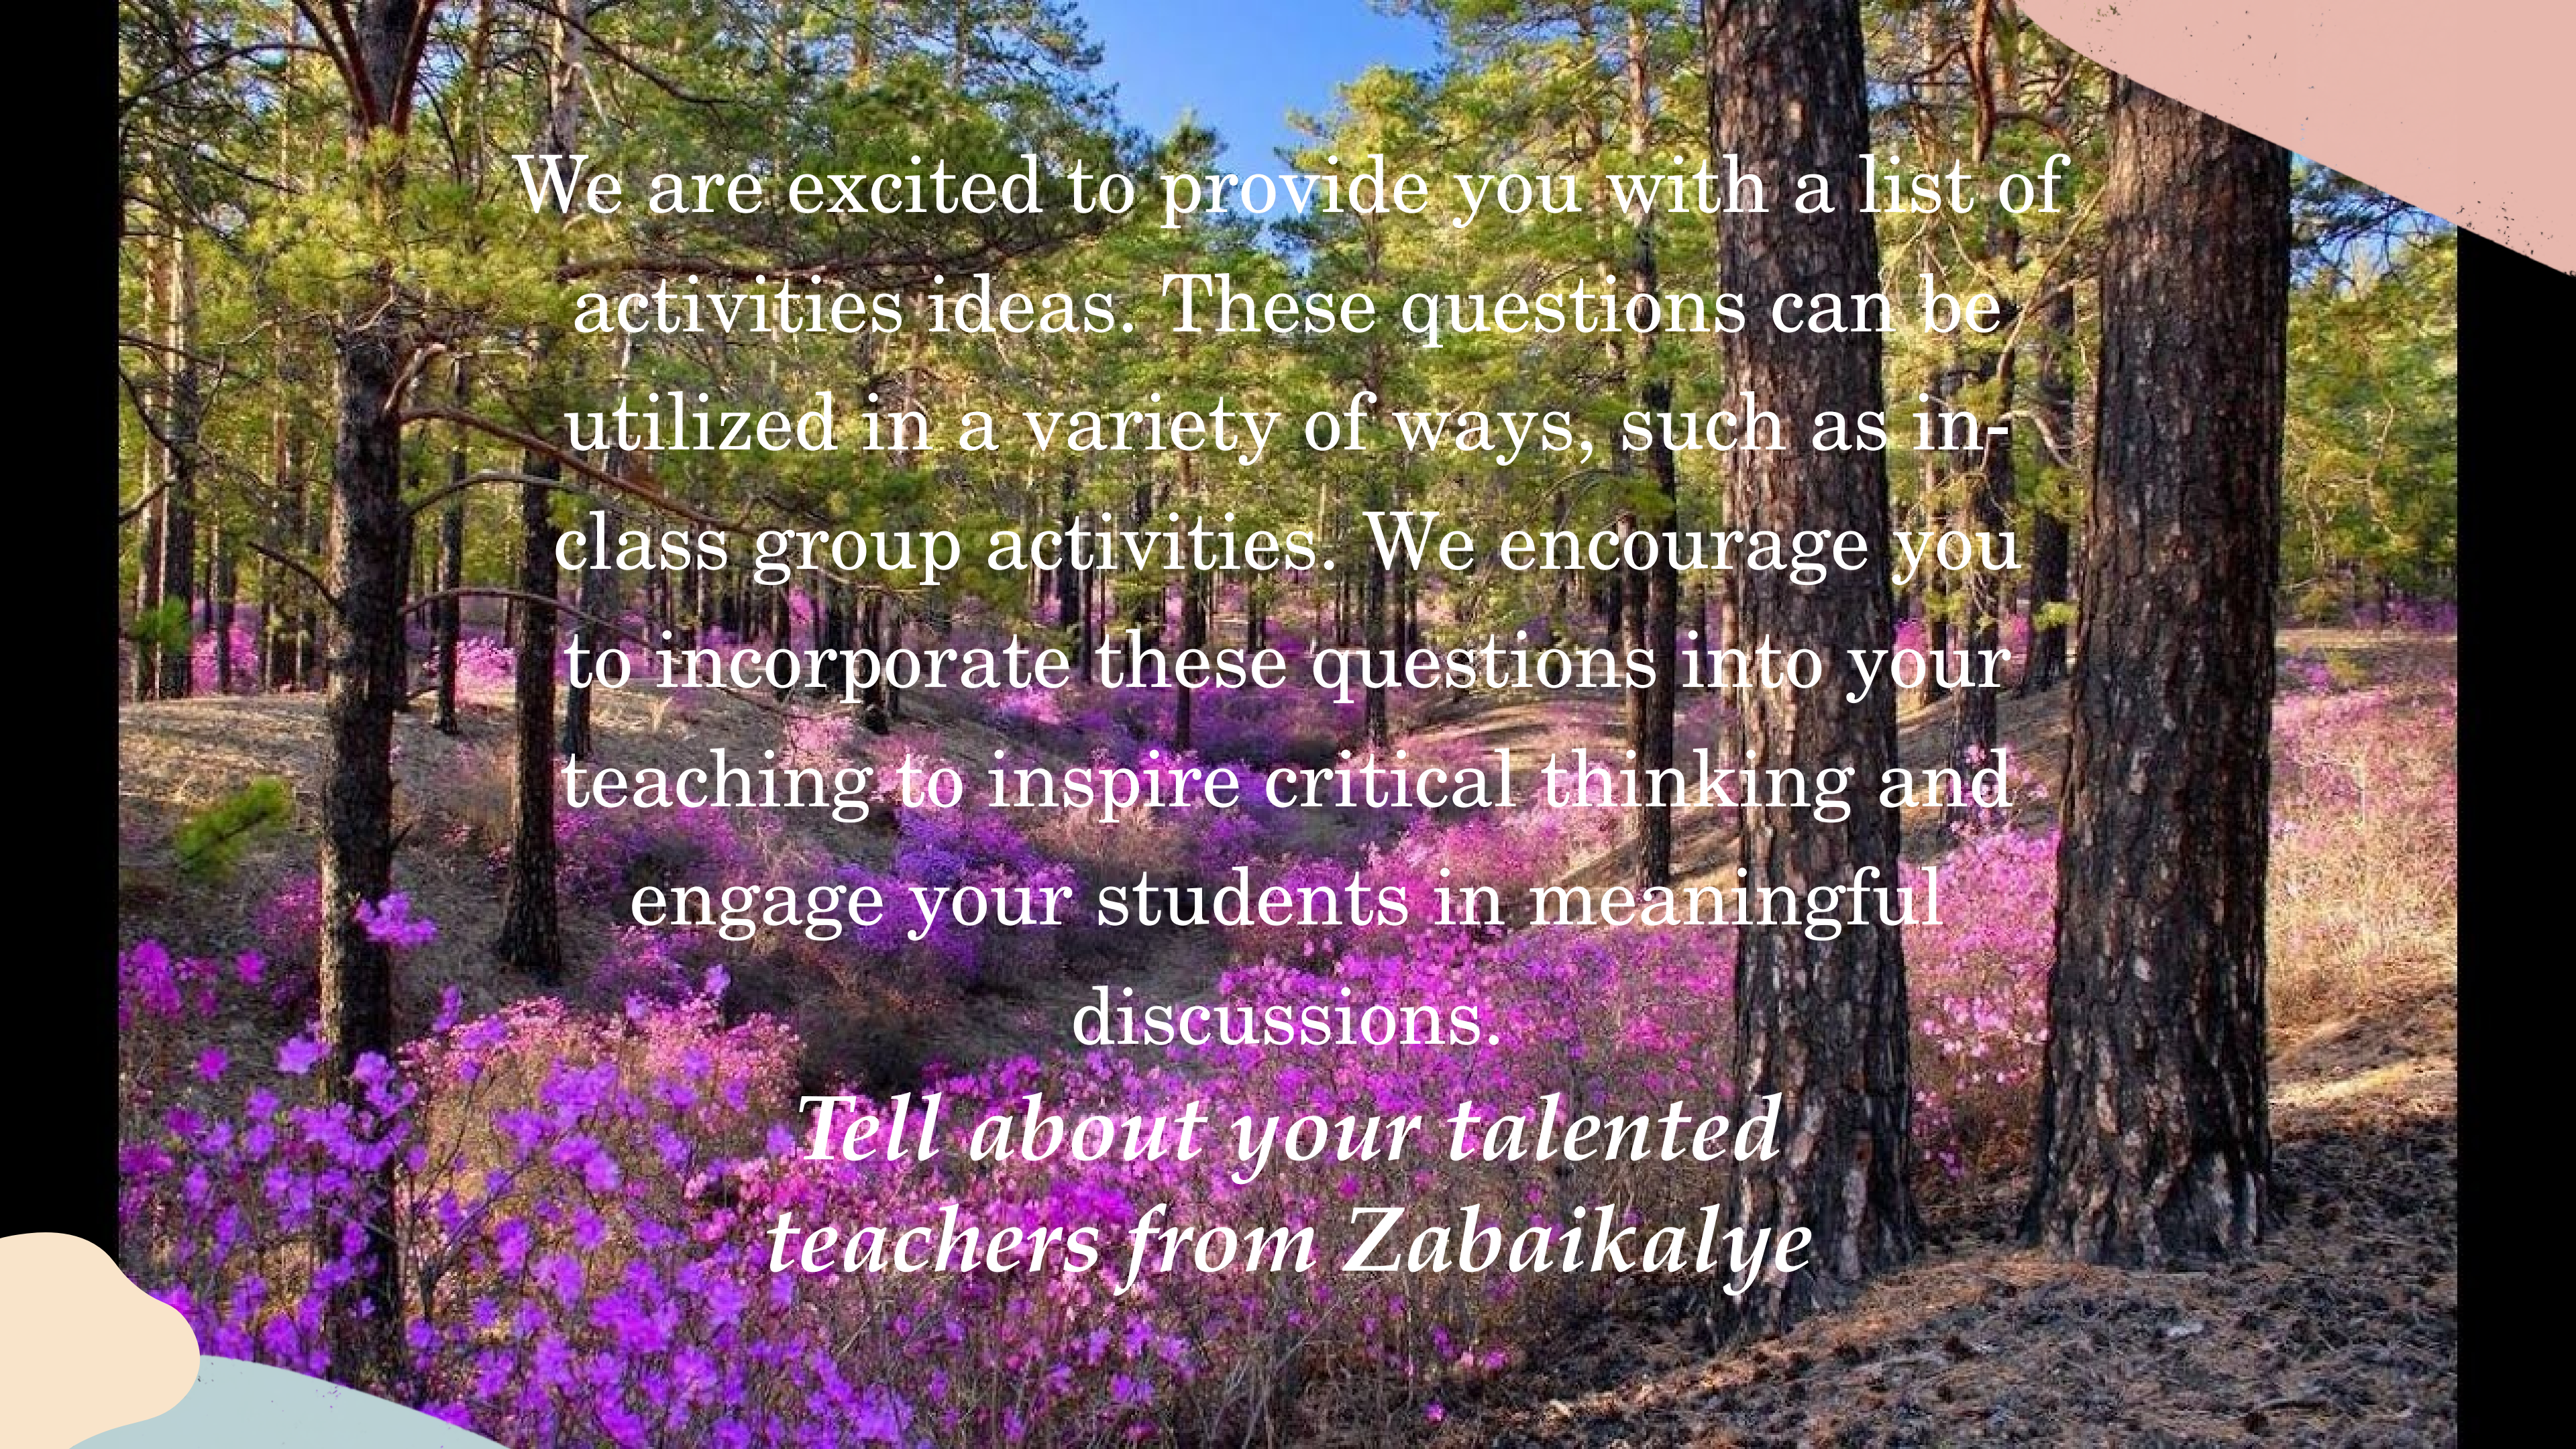

Lilia Vasilyevna is an amazing teacher. She deservedly holds the title of Honored Teacher of Education.

Personal qualities that help a teacher to successfully carry out pedagogical activities are such qualities as: pedagogical tact, readiness to understand the mental states of children, perseverance, determination, objectivity, fairness, exactingness and the ability to share accumulated experience with teachers not only in their methodological association, but also with teachers of other educational institutions; the ability to build professional relationships with colleagues, students and their parents.

Lilia Vasilyevna is a real mentor. Having worked at the school for more than 40 years, the teacher has collected a huge amount of knowledge and skills in the subject area, accompanied by students' design and research activities, participation in pedagogical seminars, conferences, round tables. The teacher heads the attestation commission and gives teachers wise advice on preparing lessons in the attestation mode. Lilia Vasilyevna always has a lot to learn!
